Guest Speakers

1. Mark King OBE, Oliver King Foundation.

Mark founded the Oliver King Foundation in 2012 following the tragic death of his 12-year-old son Oliver. Oliver died from Sudden Arrhythmic Death Syndrome, a hidden heart condition which kills 12 young people every week. Oliver attended King David High School in Liverpool and suffered a cardiac arrest whilst taking part in a swimming race.

The tragic loss of Oliver sparked a commitment to change. Access to defibrillators and proper CPR training could mean the difference between life and death for countless people. Too many lives were being lost because of the lack of awareness, equipment, and preparation in critical moments.

With this understanding, the foundation set out to achieve the following goals:

- Installing defibrillators in public spaces such as schools, sports facilities, and community centres, so that life-saving equipment is always within reach when it's needed most.
- Delivering CPR and first aid training to empower individuals to act quickly and confidently in emergencies, increasing the chance of survival for those experiencing sudden cardiac arrest.
- Raising awareness about the importance of heart health and how communities can come together to prevent unnecessary loss of life. Oliver King Foundation was established in January 2012 with a mission to prevent such tragedies.
- Since the foundation was established, significant strides have been made in making communities safer. Thousands of defibrillators have been installed in public spaces, thousands of people have been trained in life-saving CPR techniques, and they have worked to ensure that schools and organisations have the resources they need to respond to cardiac emergencies.

- To date, the Oliver King Foundation has put over 7,000 defibrillators across the country. Mark has delivered every one of them personally. They have trained over 120,000 people to use them, and 92 lives have been saved.
- The Oliver King Foundation has a bold vision for the future, to open their own ECG testing centre, providing essential heart health screenings for young people, particularly students and athletes, to detect potential heart conditions before they become life-threatening.

2. Tony Probbing, WUTHFT- Associate Director of Allied Health Professionals, Divisional Lead for Corporate Nursing.

Tony gave us some updates on Arrowe Park Hospital, the ongoing building works, and the situation at the Emergency Department.

- WUTH are now onto Phase 3 of the re-build, planned to be completed by this time next year.
- The Emergency Department (ED) is fragmented at the moment; it's split across the main rear corridor of the main hospital building, and that is causing some operational issues which are being mitigated with staffing and with different protocols.
- There is a massively increased demand in ED over the last 3-4 months, around 30% higher demand than expected.
- There are patients in the corridors and at the moment some are on the main corridor, which means there are 3 corridors full of patients as well as lots of escalation areas open- which is providing the hospital with a lot of challenges with staffing. WUTH try and maintain a one to five ratio of patients to nurses, even on the corridors. What WUTH don't have the ability to do is to say no to an ambulance when it arrives.
- Escalation level is at three-four, which is a really high level of escalation. WUTH are trying to encourage patients to use services like NHS 111, GP out of hours services, care services and to try and do a lot of self-management and speak to the GP's early on because a lot of what the ED staff are seeing is people coming in where they've not seen anyone at their GP Practice, or they've not used other services in advance, and it's not until these people become really unwell that they're then coming into the ED.
- Every single ED in the in the local area is well above its capacity, and all showing an escalation level of three or four.
- WUTH request people to "travel light" to hospital with no excessive baggage/belongings.
